"The Bargain Hunters" contest is intended to develop the reader's skill as a shopper, just as if he or she were really buying the goods instead of merely making a selection from the advertisements. No more than one article of any bargain advertised should be selected; WHOLESALE BUYING OF ANY ONE THING WILL NOT BE CONSIDERED. Every article selected must be named specifically; the mere fact that "a dollar article" was bought for 50 cents will not be accepted.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

Owing to the many ways in which a bargain can be stated it is difficult for Uncle Eke to devise general rules to cover all the specific cases which might cause doubt in the contestant's mind. So to guide those in this week's contest the following ruling is made upon generally questioned points:

Contestants may submit as many different estimates as they please, but under no circumstances will any person be awarded more than one prize.

Each contestant must spend the supposed $60 to a fraction.

No item will be considered that does not show a saving, even though it be I cent, to make up the even $60.00. In a single item quoting two or more articles or grades,

This applies to dress goods, laces, knives, forks, etc., etc., In a range of prices for the value of goods with only one seiling price, the highest value may be taken, thus: 15c, He and $1.18 Books

Regular Price Bargain Price Saved 1 Book In a range of prices for both the value and selling prices, the lowest worth price must be taken for the lowest selling price, and so on up, but only one can be taken from that item, thus:

Leather Belts, $2.00, $2.00, $4.50 In the above cases either price can be taken, but the cor-responding selling price must be used, and then only one belt.

the greatest number of items purchased will determine the winner. If they all have the same number of items, then the
